Mr. Joe Elliott, Cashmere announced today that the Western Union Telegraph office for Bay St. Louis is now located in his store. Formerly in Lee's Service Station on Main Street, it now has its services in Cashmere's Jewelry Store at 123 Railroad Ave.

Completing the installation late Wednesday afternoon, the apparatus is now ready for business in its new home during the following hours:

Mr. Casanova has announced that he will change the hours (9 a.m. to 5 p.m.) of his Jewelry Store to comply with the new time for the convenience of his customers as well as those who wish to use the telegraph office. He will not operate his jewelry shop on Sundays or other legal holidays however.

One of the loveliest parties of the season was that given jointly by Mr. W. W. Carter of Pass Christian and Mr. Edward Carter of the B.

Mrs. Carrere chose for the occasion a yellow swiss gown worn with black accessories, while Mrs. Carter wore white with a white hat trimmed with black velvet.

"Silver Whistle Enjoying National Recognition

The "Silver Whistle," which is in process of being shaped for the Joseph presentation of the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre, has only recently been released for non-professional production, and it is not surprising to find on the schedules of touring companies of theatre across the country. Nor is it surprising to learn that Hollywood is currently at work on a screen version although it is perhaps a bit more surprising that Hollywood, apparently content with a fine job of playwriting has made of Oliver Erwerston—to be played by Clifton Webb—a Belvedere and has tentatively titled the movie version "Mr. Belvedere Blows Whistle." This would appear to all Hollywood misnomers since the days when Marrie's "The Admirable Crichton" was retitled "Male and Female" and Sherwood's "The Queen's Men" has thus been transformed into "The Ruler" for screen purposes. All this considered, the Little Theatre is highly pleased to have this opportunity to present it across its boards.

Robert McEnroe, the author, is a man who has faith in his own convictions. He believes that there is no necessity for growing old and bringing on a delightful method of "avoiding" a dreaded situation in his "howling" 1. Everyone will want to see this as it is destined to be a definite success both on stage and screen.

Ensign A. P. Smith, USN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl T. Smith, came home on leave following the completion of a five months' indoctrination course at Newport, Rhode Island. Miss Smith took top honors at the graduation ceremonies and was awarded a honor certificate. Her standing in a class of 25 Wave Ensigns was based on record plus military aptitude. While at Newport, the class took courses in naval customs, ship's weeks maneuvers, then they are to report to Naval Air Stations and Headquarters throughout the country. Ensign Smith will report to Naval Air Station at Memphis, Tenn., and conclude the conclusion of her visit with her mother. Miss Smith finished Bay High with a class of 1945 and received her BA degree from Millsaps College in Jackson, Miss.

If you have not registered at the County Court House for the August primary elections, it is still not too late. You may register through July 6.

The League of Women Voters has been reliably informed that the requirement that one must register four months before an election, means the four-month period before the general election in November. Therefore, in order to vote in August, you must register before July 6. The League urges each person to take care of this as soon as possible. As a non-partisan organization, the LWV is concerned with you becoming a qualified voter and to use your vote intelligently.

LOW OFFER OF $6,061,433 IS MADE BY N. Y. FIRM

Jackson, Miss.—A New York contracting company Tuesday submitted a low bid of $6,061,433 for construction of the proposed four-lane concrete toll bridge over Bay St. Louis. The bid was $400,000 under the project.

Merriitt, Chapman and Scott Corporation, New York City, was low bidder. The second low bid was by Brown & Root, Inc., Houston, Tex., for $404,316. Hardaway Contracting Co., Columbus, Ga., was third low bidder with $6,835,548.

The state highway commission said after receiving the bids that it would not award a contract for the project until the revenue bonds for the bridge are sold here Thursday by the state bond commission.

407,259 for the bridge contract is it will be the largest single contract ever made in Mississippi since the state's first bridge project under the program was completed by June, 1933.

Bonds to be sold for the project will be retired by revenues from the bridge. The Hancock Bank, port, trustee of the project, will submit a schedule of tolls ranging from 10 cents for passenger automobiles to 25 cents for passenger automobiles less number of passengers.

Still to be awarded will be contracts for the construction of four-lane highway approaches along US highway 90 on both the Henderson Point and Bay St. Louis sides of the bay. The new bridge will be located 2000 feet north of the present wooden span.

A total of $3,400,000 had been set

I have been... well all my life and if I have to say it myself I know just what the good working people of Hancock County need is some very good pay rolls to look forward to. And to say to themselves that they don't have to go to the other man's county and take their pay rolls away from some of the workers of the community. You know my friends we have had some very good opportunities in our County but seems as if something has gone haywire and they all got out of our county. We one time had two oyster and shrimp factories here in Bay St. Louis that took care of about from one thousand to fifteen hundred workers that was a very good pay roll in our county but seems as if the whistles were too loud and awakened a few too early in the morning but they didn't think of the working men and women that were making a living for their little ones at home; and also we had a garment factory that employed a number of the ladies out of this county that was making a good living, but, looks like the train jumped the track and took everything away from our good people.

So, my friends, just what are you going to do for yourself this time. I believe you will open your eyes and vote for the men who will stand behind the gun for you good voters and taxpayers of this County and try and help bring some of these good pay rolls to our county.

Let's look at Harrison County just adjoining our county. They have millions of dollars in pay rolls going out over there in that area. If we join our county and also they have good pay rolls over there and keep their good people working all the time making good livings. Now let us go over there to Jackson county and see what they are doing. Now we all know if it wasn't for Harrison, Jackson and Pearl

River Counties would would the most of our good working people do? They have to go to either of these counties to make their living. Now, my friends, let's look back home at our good friends Hancock County. Just as we have to present a good working people here as a good living? My friends, let's see, the only pay rolls we have in Hancock County, we will say for one, the E&N Railroad Company has a fairly good pay roll in this county and we will go over and say that Mr. McDonald and Sons have the next only payroll here. Outside that we have a very small time contractor at Bay St. Louis. So you can see, voters and tax payers of Hancock County can now see that we need and that is men that will be forward and help bring pay rolls

I wish to say to you that if I am elected you will have a 24 hour good people and I promise my duties in Hancock County to law that I will do as the Sheriff BILL JOHNSON get action and results. ## UNITED STATES STILL SAY

THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES STILL SAY

"WE WANT PEACE"

The people of the United States want peace. They want peace for themselves and for the world, with which they like to trade, especially when it comes to the selling of their own products.

Unfortunately, for the people of this country, the world is not stable peace and it is not likely that the people of other countries will be able to buy much of our products unless we are willing to do something to help them.

It is not possible under an isolationist policy, which seeks to sell but not to buy. There are many Americans who believe that the nation can enjoy tremendous prosperity by ignoring the simple fact that Europe, Africa and Asia cannot buy from us if they do not sell something to us.

There are still many provincial thinkers, alive and active, in this country, who have no conception whatever of the theory of international trade and the obligations of a creditor nation. They still believe that we can sell and buy without ever buying anything from our customers.

The peace that the people of this country desire so urgently will be possible only when we understand our relationship to the modern world, become willing to share in the development of the globe and accept the responsibilities that go with economic power.

A Growing, Friendly Family

Gulf's big, friendly family in Mississippi is over 7,000 strong and is growing year by year.

Gulf's sales organization has over 2,500 men and women (including the independent business men who are Gulf distributors and dealers and their service station personnel), and there are over 300 in our Production and Pipe Line Departments.

The other important members of the Gulf family are the royalty and land owners. There are over 4,400 Mississippians who participate in Gulf's production income through receipt of royalty checks or to whom we pay rentals.

Good Gulf products are distributed to 1,105 Service Stations in Mississippi from 54 bulk plants and from 10 terminals. Our Sales Department has 4 district offices in Hattiesburg, Jackson, Tupelo and Greenwood.

Gulf's main production headquarters for Mississippi is in Laurel where our Geological Department has its office and core laboratory. Our Production and Pipe Line Departments also maintain an office in Jackson.

Gulf's annual payroll and tax bill add up to a sizable contribution to the economic progress of Mississippi. As a result, Mississippi industry operating in all areas of the state, Gulf joins with other forward-looking Mississippians in the building of a more prosperous Mississippi.

And every citizen may enjoy even greater advantages.

Trifles & Treasures

PEBBY FOOTER

I am enough of a feminist to love hats, and have always been left spellbound by Mr. John's hats—even the ones I could never afford them.

In looking for information about Mr. John and his hats I learned a very typical story about them, tho I doubt that it is factual.

If you go this way:
An elegant socialite and her debutante daughter were strolling down Park Avenue one day when a messenger, carrying four large gold and white hat boxes had an accident. The high January winds took over and the boxes went in every direction.

The young girl ran to help the messenger retrieve the boxes and her mother admonished her with, "My dear child, whatever are you thinking of?" "But mother," said the girl, "they are Mr. John's hats." Whereupon, they both took up the chase after the boxes.

This is supposed to be the sort of reverence John's hats inspire. Because of his workmanship, his natural flair for elegant lines, simplicity and chic, in addition to his expert showmanship, the male milliner fills his New York salon with famous actresses and fabulous society women.

Mr. John has been designing hats for 30 years. His startling creations get the spotlight, but the less sensational ones are the "Bread & Butter" hats of the sales to 450 stores around the country.

Some of the famous personalities who buy Mr. John's hats are Pauline Goddard, Duchess of Windsor, Haldagard, the singing star, Dorothy Kilgallen, the columnist, who is famous for her chic and once again on the list of "ten best dressed" women, Gert Lawrence, Lily Pons, and Gloria Vanderbilt Stokewald.

Customers remind Mr. John of certain flowers, I am told. Faye Emerson, ex-wife of Elliott Roosevelt, is a tulip, while Elizabeth Taylor is a black narcissus.

In the famous hatter's presentation of the 1951 collection, he included a word of warning with a short story which went something like this: "A flower-covered hat from last year's collection was brought by a woman on her way to attend the funeral of a friend's distant relative. Once inside the church, the newly hatted woman realized the hat was too frivolous for the occasion. So, she took it off, put it on the seat beside her, and pulled her scarf over her head."

A church attendant, seeing the "bouquet" beside her, picked up the offering and placed it among other floral pieces. It was not until later that the woman discovered her loss, then found what had happened. She decided discretion was the better part of respect and left—minus the hat and full of awe for custom.

Heard in a glass case on the second floor of his salon Mr. John has a collection of hats, in miniature, worn by such well-known women of history as Martha Washington, Mary Todd Lincoln, Marie Antoinette, Queen Victoria, Jenny Lind, and Lillian Russell.

In Mr. John's mirrored salon is a long row of beehive cases before mirrors, where ladies are seated, side by side, to try on the millinery creations. I was surprised for I was inclined to believe that there would be private fitting rooms. I think, however, that Mr. John has a keen eye for business in this method of selling, for most women refuse to be teased by mother and the competition is visual.

Anyway, Mr. John has certainly made a wonderful success and a lucrative business from hats.

Do you ever think how many times you speak into the mouthpiece of your telephone and how many different people use it? And, do you ever think to wash it? I do not mean just wiping a cloth over it to dust it, but actually washing it. Dip a soft cloth in a solution of any good mouthwash and water, just as you use in the morning, wring it out thoroughly and wipe the mouthpiece and earphone completely. You will find your phone more pleasant to use.

If you expect to eat outdoors this summer don't use tablecloths, which will blow in the breeze. Do use plastic mats that are heavy enough to lie flat for outdoor dining.

We know of "chickens" wearing glasses, but we've only recently heard of chickens of the feathered variety adopting them—or we might say—having them forced upon them.

A letter from a friend of mine who is touring Europe tells of the most unusual sight she saw on the whole trip, so far—300 chickens on a poultry farm in Scotland, England—and every one of them wearing glasses.

Upon investigating my friend learned that the glasses are of the clip-on type and are made with plastic lenses and are the size of a silver chicken's head. They are applied to keep the chickens from seeing straight ahead and the effect is to keep them from pecking and even killing each other. You figure it out!

drained thoroughly, they will get even sweeter and become crisp.

These green beans are most delicious. Eat them of course, but also use them as a garnish for soups, stews, casseroles, etc. They are also delicious in a salad.

For flavorful additions to your salad try: chives, parsley, carrot tops, celery tops, scallions, green onion tops, turnip greens and leaf turnips.

It is a good idea, too, to have spreads ready for sandwiches. They can be mixed, put into jars and kept for later use or for emergencies.

Here are recipes for three different ones:

OLIVE-MUSTARD
1/4 cup margarine
1/2 tea. prepared mustard
1/2 tea. minced onion
1 tb. olives, chopped.
Yield: 1/4 cup of spread.

MARGARINE-LIVER
1/4 lb. (1/2 cup) margarine
2 tb. relish
4 tb. liver paste (or mashed braunschweiger).

Cream margarine. Blend in remaining ingredients. Approximately one cup.

CHEESE-NUT
1/4 cup margarine
2 tb. grated cheddar cheese.
1/4 cup chopped walnuts.
3 tb. chopped watercress.
Yield: 1/4 cup spread.

Of course, you can increase amounts. One hostess I know recently had a foursome in for luncheon. To the card table she brought a tray on which was four containers of different kinds of spread, crackers, slices of rye and half slices of whole wheat bread, two kinds of cold cuts and two kinds of cheese.

Each guest was given a spreader and allowed to make her own sandwiches or choose her own spread. This food together with a tossed chef's salad, lemon ice-cream and a cool beverage made a delightful meal and was little trouble to the hostess.

...and I have said on an occasion that I would like to see the world through the eyes of a dog.

The world of dogs brings my thoughts back to the years to the time when, having said, we would like to see the world through the eyes of a dog.

We would like to see the world through the eyes of a dog. We would like to see the world through the eyes of a dog. We would like to see the world through the eyes of a dog.

And, it is time again, to remind us to put aside the heavy, heady fragrances for the lighter, floral odors. I particularly like carnation for the summer months and it will be a relief to get away from scent of winter perfumes, which seem stifling when the warm months come.

Au revoir

Ferguson is the father of river cut offs, elimination of long horse-shoe bends, which have resulted in a considerable lowering of flood crests.

Most of the interesting sayings that you read are partially true.

Mr. Kenneth Thompson has been added to the cast and will do the part of Mr. Beebe. Mr. Thompson is a veteran of amateur dramatics and for years was an active member of the New Orleans Little Theatre. His mannerisms and voice cadences are highly entertaining.
